

CV for Jacqueline Junkins-Hopkins M.D.

Consultant,
Ackerman Academy of Dermatopathology,
New York, USA

A board-certified dermatologist and dermatopathologist, Dr. Jacqueline M. Junkins-Hopkins was formerly at Johns Hopkins Hospital as the director of the Division of Dermatopathology, but now works as a consultant for the Ackerman Academy of Dermatopathology.

Dr. Junkins-Hopkins has a special interest in cutaneous lymphoma and the diagnosis of complicated or unusual inflammatory dermatoses through clinical-pathologic correlation. She has additional expertise diagnosing melanoma and difficult melanocytic tumors.

Medical Degree: Johns Hopkins University

Fellowship: Harvard Medical School, Brigham & Women's Hospital, Dermatopathology

Internship: Johns Hopkins Hospital, Internal Medicine

Residency: Johns Hopkins Hospital, Internal Medicine

Residency: University of Virginia, Health Science Center, Dermatology